

LOCAL MENTION

Next Friday will be the Fourth. Paraffin at Laakman's Drug Store. Only three more days until the July first.

Miss Lavinia Rozier is spending the week in St. Louis.

Where are you going to celebrate the Glorious Fourth?

Paraffin at Laakman's Drug Store. Mrs. Doc Mackley visited her sister in Flat River Wednesday.

Kenneth Kirkland, of Flat River, was a Farmington visitor Wednesday.

Miss Rema Grounds, of St. Louis, is visiting her cousin, Miss Willa Horn.

Paraffin at Laakman's Drug Store. J. H. Wade is reported to be confined to his bed on account of serious illness.

Albert Wulfert, Supt. of the ice plant at Festus, spent Tuesday with home folks.

Rev. Fr. Ryan left Monday for St. Louis to attend the Catholic Educators' Convention.

Lead and Oil, also Ready Mixed Paints, can be found at Tetley-Klein Lumber Co.

Miss Rose Valle has accepted a position in Sundry's Candy Kitchen, and is a capable assistant.

Mrs. Peter Giessing, Sr., left yesterday to Hot Springs, Ark., to take a course of treatments.

Capt. W. A. Kennedy left Wednesday for a two weeks visit with a daughter in Macomb, Ill.

Money to loan on real estate. Apply to G. O. Watts; phone 258, Farmington, Mo.

W. L. Johns visited his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Johns, and other relatives at Grubville last week-end.

Attorneys Cahoon, Childers, Davis and Dameron, of Fredericktown, attended the funeral of M. R. Smith last Friday.

Mrs. Rolla Cozcan and son, Hugo, visited Mrs. Cozcan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rinke, in Flat River yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Dillard and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson motored to St. Louis Wednesday. They will return today.

When renewing your roof, use Artcraft. Tetley-Klein Lumber Co. has it for you.

Misses Fay and Artie Walters, of St. Louis, arrived in Farmington Wednesday and are the guests of Mrs. O. J. Mayberry.

Clyde Phillips went to St. Louis the first of the week to seek work as a stenographer, in which capacity Clyde is very proficient.

Mrs. N. D. Vail and daughter, Dorothy, and son, Paul, of Poplar Bluff, are visiting their mother and grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Barroll.

See the Moline Cultivators, Mowers and Hay Rakes at the Tetley-Klein Lumber Co.

Note the compilation of the "War Casualty List" by Missouri and St. Francois county by the State Historical Society elsewhere in this issue.

Mrs. M. P. Cayce, who is in St. John's Hospital in St. Louis, is reported to be considerably improved, which will doubtless be good news to her many friends.

Mrs. G. M. London and daughters, Georgia, Viola and Alma, returned the first of the week from Madison county, where they had been visiting Mrs. London's parents.

There is no better farm machinery than the Moline. Look at the Cultivators, Mowers and Hay Rakes at the Tetley-Klein Lumber Co.

Paul Williams, who lives on a farm near Ste. Genevieve, spent over Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams. He reports fine prospects for an excellent corn crop.

Miss Maggie S. Milne, of Sycamore, and Cy B. Bayless, of Knob Lick, were united in marriage at the home of Rev. Geo. W. Harlan in this city, on June 19th, Rev. Harlan tying the nuptial knot.

Heinz Pickles in barrels, Sweet, Sour and Dill, can be secured at Bethel's Cash Meat Market. You should not fail to try them. They are most appetizing.

Capt. W. A. Kennedy reports the sale last Saturday of the cottage of Mrs. Emma C. Keller, on "A" street, to Floyd Davis. Mr. Davis and family will move into their new home about Sept. 1st.

Judge and Mrs. J. S. Clay and their son and daughter, Dr. Homer T. Clay and Miss Alma Marie, motored to the Tullock farm, near Bismarck, Tuesday and spent the night with Mrs. Clay's sister, Mrs. J. M. Matkin.

FOR SALE—A beautiful home in the western part of Farmington, electric lights, furnace, bath and all modern conveniences, on car line. Priced below cost. See J. S. Clay, Farmington, Mo.

Mrs. John Burton, of Salt Lake City, Utah, who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. J. C. Watson, left Monday for Minnesota, where she will spend the summer. She was accompanied as far as St. Louis by Mrs. Watson.

Andy Hawn has opened a plumbing and gasoline engine repair shop on the north side of the square. Andy is a very efficient plumber, as well as an expert gas engine and motorcycle mechanic, and reports that he is enjoying a good patronage.

The Times has been informed that it was in error last week in saying that Miss Effie Lawrence had accepted a position in St. Louis. This paper, however, denies the least responsibility for such error, as the reporter was wrongly informed. But we regret the mistake.

The stores of Farmington will be closed all day on July 4th. While there will be no special celebration in this city on that occasion all will have the privilege of spending the day as they may see fit. Many will doubtless attend the celebrations at other places. Union Labor is to have a big celebration at Flat River, which will draw many.

B. H. Marbury was a business visitor in Flat River Wednesday.

Attorney J. A. Malugen, of Bonne Terre, transacted business here Wednesday.

A crowd of young folks went on an outing to Iron Mountain Lake Wednesday afternoon.

Carson Morris, Harvey Haile and Bryan Murrill were Fredericktown visitors the first of the week.

A special attraction at the Monarch theatre Friday evening proved to be of unusual interest. It consisted of 75 slides that had been captured from the Germans in the St. Mihiel drive, which Sgt. Roy N. Gordon, 164 Hdgrs. Field Artillery 89th Division, brought home with him. Many of these slides were illustrative of the propaganda Germany used in attempting to keep up the morale of her troops. They "presented" many "scenes" that had been "staged" for the occasion.

An unusually heavy deluge of rain fell in this vicinity for about an hour Wednesday evening, which was preceded and accompanied by a heavy wind storm and vivid electrical display. For a time the clouds had a cyclonic appearance, and the coolness of the wind indicated severe hail storms in the vicinity. But no information has reached The Times that this section of the State has suffered, either from cyclone or hail. About all the damage that has been reported is the blowing down of corn and wheat shocks.

J. K. Jones orders his paper changed to Stotts City, Mo., near which place he will conduct a hog farm, raising the famous Duroc-Jersey hogs. Mr. Jones has successfully filled the position of District Emergency Agricultural Agent for the past year, and during that time has made a wide acquaintance of the farmers of St. Francois and the other counties of his district, who, with his numerous friends in Farmington and neighboring towns, are sorry to see him leave St. Francois county, but wish him well in his new enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Haile and daughters, Misses Agnes and Willette, left early Tuesday morning on their motor trip to their new home in Amelia, Fla., an island suburb of Fernandina. The start was delayed a day owing to heavy rains having been reported in the southeast, which was feared would make the dirt roads between here and Cape Girardeau heavy and unpleasant traveling. This excellent family was besieged with friends the last few days here, wishing them an excellent trip, a happy residence in their new home.

Rev. E. H. Orear, the new pastor of the M. E. Church, South, has for the past month been devoting the Sunday evening services to a series of talks, or sermons, on the war. These sermons are based on actual experience, as Rev. Orear was in the front lines for a number of months as chaplain. These talks have been most interesting to all who have been privileged to hear them, and have served as a most favorable introduction of Rev. Orear to Farmington people, among whom he is already quite a favorite.

Farmington has an ordinance that fixes the speed limit at 15 miles per hour. Some automobilists do not seem to know this, or either willfully and maliciously violate said ordinance. Wednesday afternoon a Farmington lady citizen was crossing Liberty street, one of these willful and malicious violators, who is reported to have been going at least 30 miles per hour, narrowly missed running into her. This is many, many times that similar occurrences have taken place, and the practice should be stopped before some serious accident occurs. Race tracks are provided to race upon, so why encroach upon the rights of others by risking both your life and theirs by racing up and down the city streets.

There is every advantage in trading with the firms that advertise. The non-advertiser who tells you he can sell cheaper because he spends no money for advertising shows by that very argument how little he knows of modern methods of merchandising. You, yourself, know he is wrong. Do you ever go out of town to trade? If you do, you do not go into the city and hunt up the stores whose advertisements you have never seen. You hurry to the store your are familiar with through their advertising. Ask yourself, then, if advertising pays. It pays the store, and it pays the customer.

Judge E. E. Swink left Monday for Sedalia to attend a meeting of the State Fair Board, of which organization he is President. No one in the State, perhaps, has more business to attend to than does Judge Swink, yet it has been very seldom that he has missed a meeting of the State Fair Board during all the years he has been a member. He is deeply interested in improving the live stock of the State, and believes there is no better way to bring about such a happy condition than is a real progressive fair board and the best possible annual fair. The Judge says this year's State Fair will far surpass all previous ones.

Many friends in this vicinity of Lieut. E. H. Moll occasionally hear from him, and others will be pleased to know that he is healthy and happy. D. F. Giessing this week brought to The Times office a circular showing that Lieut. Moll is now lecturing in Egypt. His friends know that his qualifications for such work are splendid. Lieut. Moll will be remembered as having visited Henry Giessing and family for several months, until he returned to his native country of Australia about eighteen months ago and enlisted for the war, in which he saw strenuous service. He is a regularly ordained minister of the Lutheran church.

On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ab Mullins gave a reception to their son, Russell, who had just returned from the war. The members of Picket Post No. 215, G. A. R. of this city, were especially invited to the homecoming reception, and the old veterans were delighted to hear some of the experiences of this recently returned hero from the battle front, where he had been six times wounded, and has a bullet in his possession that was taken from his lungs. The evening was most pleasantly spent in listening to stories of the war, as seen by the returned hero, and when he could not be persuaded to say more, time was not permitted to drag, as the veterans of the '61-'65 had many harrowing tales to unfold of their fighting days.

Smith AuBuchon arrived home Monday evening with an honorable discharge from almost a year's service in the marines, over five months of which time he was in service in the trouble district of Russia. He and his former partner, Judge J. H. Oren, have already resumed their partnership in the real estate business. Smith was telling a bunch of friends Tuesday morning how his parents took on over his appearance the previous evening; that his mother would not consent to retire until she knew her boy was in his bed and the door locked, while the father arose early in the morning and looked into Smith's room to see if he was still there. About that time the father appeared on the scene, and after the laugh at his expense had somewhat subsided, he said: "Of course we are delighted to have the boy back with us, but, by golly, the boy is just about as proud to be back as we are to have him back. He will have to be abducted and carried off if we lose him again."

BUSINESS COLLEGE NOTES

Ted Graves began work in the shorthand department Tuesday morning.

Willard Marbury took up penmanship the first of the week.

Robt. Hensley began the shorthand course Monday morning.

Miss Harriet Fite of Bonne Terre entered Monday and will complete the shorthand course which she has been taking in the High School of Bonne Terre this past winter.

Miss Mabel Umfleet of Esther returned Monday for a short post-graduate course, preparatory to accepting a good position in St. Louis.

Miss Judith McNew, whose home is in St. Louis, has ordered a new stenotype machine. Mabel will complete her course and return to St. Louis soon for a position.

Mr. Cundiff of Springfield visited our college Monday. He is an uncle of Miss Lucy Applegate, who is taking our stenotypy course. He expressed himself as well pleased with our school, and said it was impossible to get enough competent stenographers in Springfield.

Miss Mayme Howell, recently operated upon for appendicitis, is now able to receive visitors. She is very anxious to return to school.

Miss Elsie Beard was called from school this week to attend the funeral of her uncle, Mr. Denton, of Leadwood.

Archie Cook, formerly of Roselle, called Monday. He has just been discharged from the army. Instead of returning to his old position in St. Louis, Archie has been offered a splendid position with a company in Tennessee and will probably accept. It has been nearly two years since Archie left our college.

POISON THE POTATO BEETLE

Why allow the potato beetles to destroy the potatoes? They can be easily controlled by spraying with an arsenical. Every year this pest does an immense amount of damage by eating the leaves of the potatoes and thus permitting none or only a few small potatoes to grow.

The beetles emerge from the ground early in the spring and commence feeding and lay their eggs soon after the potatoes are through the ground. These eggs soon hatch and the young grubs feed ravenously. They grow rapidly and unless controlled at this time soon become numerous enough to destroy the potato crop.

This pest may be easily controlled by spraying the potato vines with arsenate of lead in the proportion of 2 pounds of the powdered form (or 3 pounds of the paste) to 50 gallons of water. Mix thoroughly and apply with a good pump throwing a fine spray of mist. Cover all parts of the foliage completely. Begin spraying soon after the potato vines are up or when the beetles first appear and spray as often as is necessary. Do not wait until the beetles have become numerous but kill the first ones which appear in the spring.

Where one has only a few vines to protect and will not need a large amount of material they may mix the poison in the proportion of 2 ounces of the powdered arsenate of lead or 4 ounces of the paste to 3 gallons of water.

If one does not have a spray pump they may poison the beetles by mixing thoroughly 2 rounding tablespoonfuls of dry arsenate of lead with one quart of flour or air slacked lime. Paris green will do if the arsenate of lead cannot be secured. Place this mixture in a porous flour sack or in a can with nail holes in the lid, and sift on potato vines.

Don't delay, kill the beetles now before they have damaged the crop. For leaflet giving directions apply to your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent.

WEEKLY NEWS NOTES

BY COUNTY AGENT

Cattle in Lead Belt Still Dying from Hemorrhagic Septicemia

Reports continue to reach the County Agent of old cattle dying in the Lead Belt, of what is presumed to be blackleg. Without question, these losses are due to hemorrhagic septicemia. It is not often that a well-developed two-year-old animal will die from blackleg. Hemorrhagic septicemia has nearly all the symptoms of blackleg with the exception that it kills cattle two years old or older as readily as it does the younger ones. We have definitely proved that this disease has been killing cattle from Elvins to Irondale and south to Bismarck. Our diagnosis of this trouble was made from a blood sample taken from a dead animal and sent to the Kinsay Laboratories at Kansas City. They reported the disease to be hemorrhagic septicemia. A vaccine has been prepared for this disease and is really more effective than blackleg vaccine. It is not expensive to use and furnishes a mighty good insurance against losses. Farmers who have cattle running over territory where there has been losses should arrange to have their cattle vaccinated in order to prevent further losses.

Egg Candling Demonstration for Merchants

Mr. J. M. Borders, Egg Specialist for the United States Food Laboratories, gave an egg candling and grading demonstration at the McAtee Produce Company to interested merchants last week. Mr. Borders explained some of the things that merchants are going to have to watch for under the new State egg law, so that losses from bad eggs may be thrown back on the producer. Following is a brief summary of this law:

"The new egg law passed by the last Missouri Legislature which is to become effective as soon as it receives the Governor's signature, is entitled 'an act to provide for the regulation of traffic in eggs; to provide for the licensing of dealers in eggs; to prevent fraud and misrepresentation in dealing in eggs; and to prevent the sale of eggs unfit for human food.' The bill provides that every dealer who handles eggs in lots of one case or more must secure from the State Food and Drug Commissioner a license to conduct such business. The annual license fee for merchants is $2.00 and for carlot shippers, $10. Every person or firm buying eggs for resale shall provide and maintain an adequate place for the candling of all eggs. No person, firm, or corporation shall sell or have in his possession with intent to sell, offer or expose for sale, any eggs unfit for human food. The penalty for violation of the law is a fine of not less than $15 nor more than $200. The license fee will provide funds for inspection so that we have every reason to believe that this new law will be enforced. This will go a long way toward eliminating the losses from bad eggs and will make it advisable for every producer to sell only infertile eggs in hot weather.

Produce Infertile Eggs

Fertile eggs cost the farmer $15,000,000 per year. This loss is preventable because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to hatch.

Mr. T. S. Townsley of the Poultry Department, College of Agriculture, told the County Agent recently of an interesting demonstration he gave last summer. Arrangements had been made to hold a demonstration on the proper marketing of eggs. Mr. Townsley wrote a farmer where the demonstration was to be held, to secure six fertile eggs and place them in his kitchen where he was accustomed to keep his eggs until he secured enough to sell; also, to place six infertile eggs in the same basket and leave them both in this location until the date of the demonstration which was to be four days later. When Mr. Townsley arrived at the meeting, the farmer told him that the only infertile eggs he had been able to secure were some which had been in his incubator ten days and tested out infertile and had since been out of the incubator seven weeks. He had placed six of these eggs in the basket with the fertile ones to be used in the demonstration. The six fertile eggs were broken at the demonstration and placed in a pan. Everyone of them showed a slight blood ring. The six infertile eggs which had been in the incubator ten days and then kept for seven weeks more, were broken in another pan and looked perfectly clean and fit for food. The two pans were passed around at the demonstration and the women present were asked which ones they considered fit for food. They were unanimous in the opinion that the infertile ones were fit for food and pronounced the fertile ones unfit for food. After the hatching season, which should be over now, cook, pen, or kill your rooster. Hens not running with a male bird produce infertile eggs and they are the ones that keep best and market best. Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Follow these simple rules and aid the merchant in complying with the new State egg law: (1) Dispose of the rooster; (2) keep eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar; (3) market the eggs at least twice a week; (4) do not expose them to the blistering rays of the sun while taking them to market.
